They deserve your vote

To the Editor:

Two years ago, when I ran for Radnor School Board Director, I spoke of great concern for making tough choices with our limited financial resources and the need to provide a relevant, effective educational program for our children.

However, some choices are easy. On May 19, four dedicated citizens will run for Radnor School Board. They are Democrats Rob Armstrong, Doug Blazey, Lydia Solomon and incumbent Brucie Rapoport. While others may be running, these four individuals bring needed talents to the board.

In particular, Rob Armstrong is a stay-at-home parent caring for two young children, one of whom is in elementary school in the district. Rob has the time, commitment and energy to devote to the Radnor School Board. In addition he has had a successful career in finance and operations. His business skills are sorely needed on the board at this time. In fact Rob has already been volunteering his time in the School District finance department. It's time to put his brilliant mind to work on the board.

Rob, Doug, Lydia and Brucie, unlike some other names on the ballot, all have children in our public schools. The votes they will cast for budgets and programs and curriculum will directly affect their children, as well as ours, and they take that responsibility very seriously. These four candidates are committed as a group to the Democratic ideals of open communication, open process and fiscal responsibility.

I hope that on May 19 you will take the time to vote and join me in supporting Rob Armstrong, Doug Blazey, Lydia Solomon and incumbent Brucie Rapoport.
